I.
Introduction

The County’s Opposition brief argues the remedy requested by the Watermaster would: (a) overstep the bounds of the Judgment which are limited to “an adjudication of water rights;” and (b) violate the separation of powers doctrine, by interfering with the County’s legislative and regulatory authority. On both points, the County is mistaken.

In addition to adjudicating water rights, the Judgment’s Physical Solution provides for the management, conservation, and preservation of the limited groundwater resources within the Mojave Basin Area. This includes taking steps reasonably required to prevent further depletion of the groundwater levels in this historically overdrafted groundwater basin, by the unlimited construction of additional water wells. That is the single goal and purpose of the Watermaster’s motion.

Additionally, the separation of powers doctrine is not violated when a court merely requires a public agency to comply with the requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) (Pub. Resources Code, §21000 et seq.) and CEQA Guidelines. This principle is demonstrated in Protecting our Water and Environmental Resources v. County of Stanislaus (10 Cal.5th 479), where the Supreme Court upheld the Court of Appeal’s holding that the County’s “blanket [ministerial classification of certain well permit applications] violates CEQA” and, accordingly, “plaintiffs are entitled to a declaration that [the County’s] blanket ministerial categorization is unlawful” (Id., pp. 499, 501; emphasis added).

In this same connection, the County’s Opposition brief does not disclose whether it continues its impermissible blanket ministerial categorization of all applications for the construction of new water wells within the Mojave Basin Area -- without giving any consideration to the environmental impacts of new well construction, and whether an unlimited number of new water wells might impact and undermine the Judgment’s Physical Solution.¹

¹ Nor does the County’s Opposition disclose whether it complies with CEQA Guideline 15003, subd. (c), which states a public agency “should, in its implementing regulations or ordinances, provide an identification or itemization of its projects and actions which are deemed ministerial . . .”

1 of the construction of new water wells in the Mojave Basin Area based on concerns that might 2 be uncovered by CEQA review. Therefore, it also is undisputed that such projects are 3 “discretionary.”

4 In the Mojave Basin Area, the obvious “environmental concerns” of new water well
5 construction include a seriously depleted groundwater supply, potential water quality
6 degradation, possible ground subsidence, and potential biological resource degradation – to 7 name a few. In County of Stanislaus, the Supreme Court explained further that:

8 In determining whether County’s issuance of these permits is a discretionary 9 project, we are guided by the principle that CEQA must be interpreted “to afford the 10 fullest possible protection to the environment within the reasonable scope of the statutory 11 language.” [Citation omitted.]

(Id., at 496.)

12 [The County of Stanislaus] argument is inconsistent with the CEQA Guidelines, 13 which provide that, when a project “involves an approval that contains elements of both 14 a ministerial action and a discretionary action, the project will be deemed to be 15 discretionary.” (CEQA Guidelines, § 15268, subd. (d).) It cannot be reconciled with 16 judicial declarations that a project is discretionary if the government can “shape the 17 project in any way which could respond to any of the concerns which might be 18 identified” during an environmental review [Citation omitted, emphasis in original], and 19 that any “doubt whether a project is ministerial or discretionary should be resolved
20 in favor of the latter characterization.” [Citation omitted; italics in original; bold print
21 added.]

(Id., 497.)²

22 The Mojave Basin Area remains in a state of overdraft, which manifestly raises 23 “environmental concerns that might be uncovered by CEQA review.” Based upon this 24 circumstance, the County’s processing of new water well applications must contain, at a 25 minimum, some “elements of . . . a discretionary action;” therefore, “the project will be deemed 26 to be discretionary and will be subject to the requirements of CEQA.” (CEQA Guidelines, 27

28 ² Because the County of Stanislaus ordinance allowed ministerial approval of permits under certain specified circumstances, the Court also reversed the Court of Appeal’s ruling “that all permit issuances under chapter 9.36 of the Stanislaus County Code are discretionary” (Ibid.). In doing so, the Supreme Court noted that, “If the circumstances of a particular project do not require the exercise of independent judgment, it is not discretionary.” (Id., at 500, bold print added.) The circumstances in the overdrafted Mojave Basin Area are significantly different, requiring independent judgment and discretionary determinations.

1 section 15003, subd. (d).)

2 IV.
3 Under the circumstances prevailing in the overdrafted Mojave Basin Area,
4 discretionary determinations should be required.

5 In the historically overdrafted Mojave Basin Area groundwater basin, it cannot 6 reasonably be doubted that additional water well construction projects give rise to obvious
7 “concerns which might be identified during an environmental review;” accordingly, such need
8 to be considered and addressed, and “any doubt whether a project is ministerial or discretionary 9 should be resolved in favor of the latter characterization.”

10 Moreover, the Judgment grants the Court authority to determine water rights of all 11 producers within the Basin, not just those who currently are Parties to the Judgment; this 12 includes persons who apply for new well construction permits, and whose additional production 13 could exacerbate the overdraft condition.

14 The Watermaster respectfully submits that in the “circumstances” of the Mojave Basin 15 Area’s historically overdrafted groundwater basin (necessitating a Basin-wide adjudication of 16 groundwater rights and a Physical Solution), projects for additional extraction of groundwater
17 require the exercise of independent judgment and discretionary review. Therefore, to comply 18 with CEQA, discretionary review of new well construction applications should be required.

19 V.
20 Response to Other Parties’ Concerns

21 The Objection/Response filed collectively by Mitsubishi Cement Corporation, 22 Robertson’s Ready Mix, Ltd., and CalPortland Company (collectively, “Mitsubishi”) claims 23 Watermaster’s motion fails to: distinguish and exempt replacement wells; explain how the 24 County would perform a CEQA review (if necessary) in a manner that does not improperly 25 duplicate or encroach upon the responsibilities of the Watermaster and the Court in managing 26 the Basin; explain what significance threshold under CEQA the County would be required to 27 consider when reviewing well applications and considering their impact on the “environment”, 28 or how those thresholds would comply with the Judgment and Physical Solution. Mitsubishi also complains, “the Watermaster does not address or explain how the Motion is consistent with the

1 principles in California Am. Water v. City of Seaside.”

2 A. *California American Water v. City of Seaside

3 Watermaster’s motion is, in fact, consistent with the principles articulated in California
4 American Water v. City of Seaside (2010) 183 Cal.App.4th 471. In that matter, the court had 5 previously adjudicated groundwater rights and imposed a physical solution. The Monterey
6 Peninsula Water Management District -- which had the authority to grant permits to establish 7 or expand water distribution systems -- contended the court exceeded its jurisdiction and 8 violated the doctrine of separation of powers by later restricting the District’s authority to 9 require environmental review of permit applications. The Court of Appeal disagreed, and 10 explained:

11 Specifically addressing the MPWMD’s assertion of exclusive authority to regulate 12 groundwater pumping under the separation of powers doctrine, the court pointed out that 13 the District itself had requested a physical solution, thereby conceding that the court had 14 superior authority to regulate the use of the basin.

15 (Id., at 475.)

16 So, also, in the case at bar, on multiple occasions the County has stipulated to the January
17 10, 1996, Judgment entered in this action and, by doing so, conceded the Court has “superior 18 authority to regulate the use of the” groundwater in Mojave Basin Area.

19 Should the powers of the Watermaster overlap those of the [District], the court would,
20 under its retained jurisdiction, be in a position to resolve any resulting conflict.

21 (Id., at 476.)

22 That also is true here, and answers Mitsubishi’s question as to how the County would 23 “perform a CEQA review (if necessary) in a manner that does not improperly duplicate or 24 encroach upon the responsibilities of the Watermaster and the Court in managing the Basin, and 25 how conflicts should be resolved if the County analyses impacts in a manner that the 26 Watermaster considers to be inconsistent with the Judgment.” As explained in City of Seaside, 27 any such conflicts would be resolved under the Court’s reserved jurisdiction.

28 . . . although the [District] had authority to issue water distribution permits, it “cannot exercise that authority in contravention of the Physical Solution imposed by the [court’s] Amended Decision for management of the Basin.” Accordingly, the court ruled that “the Physical Solution governs the environmental aspects of Seaside Basin [groundwater] usage, . . .

1 (Id., at 478.)

2 Likewise, although the County has authority to issue well construction permits, it “cannot 3 exercise that authority in contravention of the Physical Solution” which “governs the 4 environmental aspects of” depleting groundwater levels in the Mojave Basin Area. Because the 5 Physical Solution governs the environmental aspects of the Basin, this provides the Court with 6 additional authority to direct the County to treat applications for the construction of additional 7 water wells as requiring “discretionary” determinations.

8 The [District] argument that the order violated the separation of powers doctrine is not 9 well taken.

10 (Id., at 481.)

11 Thus, in City of Seaside, the Court of Appeal specifically found the trial’s court’s 12 restrictions on the District’s ability to require environmental review did not violate the 13 separation of powers doctrine. The other side of the coin also is true, i.e., the separation of 14 powers doctrine would not be violated by this Court’s direction to the County of San Bernardino
15 to comply with the requirements of CEQA by treating applications for permits to construct new 16 water wells in the overdrafted Mojave Basin Area as requiring a “discretionary” determination.

17 We further see no improper restriction of the [District’s] discretion. The court’s
18 order clearly acknowledged that the District had the authority to issue water distribution 19 permits, . . . Nevertheless, the court explained, the District’s power must not be used in 20 a way that conflicts with the provisions of the physical solution and thereby disrupts the 21 carefully established groundwater production rights of the parties to that solution.

22 (Id., at 482.)

23 The foregoing statement in City of Seaside also answers Mitsubishi’s concern as to 24 “how” the County is to exercise its discretion and what standards it is to apply when doing so.
25 The County will remain free to exercise its discretion as it deems appropriate under the 26 circumstances presented, provided it complies with the requirements of CEQA and the CEQA 27 Guidelines, and does not use its discretion “in a way that conflicts with the provisions of the 28 physical solution and thereby disrupts the carefully established groundwater production rights of the parties to that solution.”

For the above stated reasons, Watermaster submits its motion is entirely consistent with

1 the principles articulated in City of Seaside which, when carefully read, answers the concerns
2 expressed in Mitsubishi’s Objection/Response.³

3 B. Replacement Wells

4 The motion is intended to focus upon applications by persons who do not presently have 5 an adjudicated water right. Therefore, alleviating what appears to be Mitsubishi’s principal
6 concern, the Order requested by MWA would exclude permit applications for the construction
7 of both new and replacement water wells by Parties to the Judgment who are assigned Base 8 Annual Production and Free Production Allowance groundwater rights. This exclusion is 9 warranted because the Judgment and the Watermaster’s Rules and Regulations already contain 10 provisions regulating such Parties’ groundwater usage and replacement obligations (in the event 11 a Party produces groundwater in excess of its adjudicated groundwater rights).

12 VI.
13 Conclusion

14 The County of San Bernardino’s continued practice of ministerial approval of 15 applications for construction of additional wells within the Mojave Basin Area will violate 16 CEQA, exacerbate the overdraft, and negatively impact upon the Judgment’s Physical Solution.
17 Therefore, except for Parties with adjudicated groundwater rights, the County should be required
18 to treat all applications for new well construction in the Mojave Basin Area as requiring a 19 discretionary determination in accordance with CEQA, and so as not to “[disrupt] the carefully 20 established groundwater production rights of the parties to the” Physical Solution.

21 ///

22 ///

23 ///

24 ///

25 ///

26 ³ Mitsubishi also complains the Watermaster’s motion does not “explain how the County’s 27 ‘consultation’ with the Watermaster would apply in the context of CEQA.” At a minimum, it would 28 encourage a collaborative and reflective decision making process, rather than merely a “ministerial” process.

As in City of Stanislaus and City of Seaside, the Order requested in MWA's motion is not an impermissible usurpation of the County's legislative or regulatory authority.

Therefore, the motion should be granted.
