Reservation No. Per Court Order 2/20/2026

1 I, Peter Leffler, declare:

2 1. I have personal knowledge of the matters stated in this declaration, and, if called, I
3 would competently testify as follows.

4 2. I am a California registered Professional Geologist (CA No. 6475) and Certified
5 Hydrogeologist (CA No. 462). I am Senior Principal Hydrogeologist with Luhdorff & Scalmanini
6 Consulting Engineers (LSCE). I have been employed by LSCE for 10 years and have been
7 employed in similar capacities by other firms since 1990. I have thirty-five years of professional
8 experience in groundwater consulting with a focus on groundwater resource development,
9 management and protection. In terms of adjudicated groundwater basins, I have provided expert
10 testimony for the Antelope Valley, currently serve as the Basin Engineer reporting to the Court for 11 the Santa Maria Valley Management Area in Santa Maria Groundwater Basin, and reevaluated the 12 original Court determined safe yield in Cummings Groundwater Basin. I have provided
13 groundwater consulting services in well over one dozen additional groundwater basins. My 14 curriculum vitae is attached. (Exhibit A.)

15 3. LSCE and I were retained by counsel for Victorville Water District (VWD) to 16 provide hydrologic and hydrogeologic services to VWD regarding the Mojave Basin Area
17 adjudication.

18 4. I reviewed and provided recommendations regarding the Hydrologic Base Period
19 and developed opinions on Mitsubishi Cement Corporation, Robertson's Ready Mix, LTD., and 20 CalPortland Company's (hereafter, collectively, Mitsubishi et al.) Motion to Select Hydrologic
21 Base Period of 1995-2024 (Mitsubishi et al. Motion) and Watermaster's (WM) Renewed Motion
22 for Determination of Hydrologic Base Period for Calculation of Production Safe Yield Values
23 (WM Motion).

24 5. My initial recommendations for a new Hydrologic Base Period were transmitted to 25 WM in two comment letters on December 12, 2025 and January 14, 2026.

26 6. A long-term hydrologic record is the most reliable dataset to evaluate average and 27 extreme, variable hydrologic conditions. A longer record reduces short term bias and the impact
28 of outlying data. The complete 94-year hydrologic record for the Mojave Basin, water years 1931

1 to 2024, is presumptively the best representation of the long-term average Basin hydrology.

2 7. The average flow at The Forks for this 94-year period is 69,333 AFY. Basin
3 recharge is driven by large storms and Mojave River flow events, not just average annual
4 precipitation. Flow at The Forks records Mojave River flow and storm events and is the best
5 representation of Basin long-term average water supply.

6 8. I recommend that the complete hydrologic record for the Mojave Basin, water years
7 1931 to 2024, be used as the long-term reference period for evaluation of potential base periods.

8 9. A longer-term record that captures a wide range of conditions remains relevant for 9 evaluating future climate change that is expected to cause more variability and extreme hydrologic
10 conditions.

11 10. In VWD's December 12, 2025 comment letter to WM, we recommended that DWR
12 2018 Climate Change Guidance be reviewed to determine if the expectation for Mojave Basin is a 13 drier future with climate change and, if so, how much drier with respect to streamflow. Review of 14 this climate change guidance for other groundwater basins in California shows that many of them
15 are predicted to have greater future rainfall and/or streamflow that will either offset
16 temperature/ET increase or even result in greater future groundwater recharge. Because Mojave
17 River Basin recharge is driven by large storm and Mojave River flow events, not average annual 18 precipitation, it is reasonably possible that climate change may both increase average annual 19 temperature and frequency of drought periods while increasing the frequency and/or magnitude of 20 large storm events that are the primary driver of long-term average annual basin recharge.

21 11. To my knowledge, WM did not analyze the DWR 2018 Climate Change Guidance.
22 Mitsubishi's expert EKI, however, did conduct the Climate Change Guidance analysis that VWD
23 recommended. Mitsubishi et al's Motion, Exhibit 23, summarizes EKI's analysis:

24 The average streamflow change factor for the 2030 climate scenario, the most
25 relevant scenario for immediate planning purposes, is 0.96 for the monthly datasets
26 and 0.97 for the annual datasets provided by DWR. This suggests that DWR
27 anticipates that the Mojave River flows may decrease in the future by 28 approximately 3-4% relative to the historical period.

27 . . .

28 For the 2030 climate scenario, the average change factors for precipitation and ET are 0.97 and 1.04, respectively. These represent approximately 3% less

1 precipitation and 4% more ET, overall indicating a slight increase in the aridity of
2 the Basin relative to the historical period.

3 EKI has recommended for consideration a Hydrologic Base Period of 1995-2024
4 that is approximately 3% drier than the entire period of record (1931-2024) based
5 on materials presented in the 14 January 2026 public hearing. [fn] A Hydrologic
6 Base Period with a 3% drier hydrology is aligned with DWR's estimates of 2030
7 conditions based on the streamflow and precipitation factors described above. By 8 comparison, the Watermaster's recommended period of 2001-2020 is 12% drier
9 than the period of record, suggesting a much more extreme representation of future
10 hydrologic conditions.

11 (Mitsubishi et al Motion, Ex. 23, p 2 [MM001625].)

12 12. A drier base period has potential to reduce current PSY and FPA, especially once
13 it is applied to the updated Mojave River Basin Model. Compared to the long-term 1931-2024
14 average, WM's proposed 2001 to 2020 base period is actually 11% drier than the long-term
15 average. The Watermaster Statement of Reasons for the 2001-2020 period states that this BP is 16 6% drier than average, but WM was comparing 2001-2020 to 1931-1990.

17 13. Comparison of the various alternative base periods to the long-term 1931 – 2024
18 average reveals how conservative (i.e., dry) the WM's proposed 2001 to 2020 base period is. The 19 alternative 1995-2024 base period is 3% drier than the long-term 1931-2024 average, which 20 matches the DWR estimate for the 2030 climate change scenario.

21 14. The 1995-2024 base period is representative of recent cultural conditions because 22 it generally follows the period after adoption of the Judgment in 1996 and it includes all water and 23 land use changes up to the most recent water year 2024 for which we have comprehensive records.

24 15. In my opinion, the DWR climate change assessment supports selection of 1995-
25 2024 as the BP.

26 16. Presumably, the new base period selected will serve an important role as the 27 historical calibration period for the basin groundwater model currently being updated. The 28 incorporation of years from the 1990s, even though they may not be as representative of current cultural conditions, is not problematic and likely is beneficial for improving model calibration by incorporating a time frame that simulates somewhat different basin stress conditions.

17. Ideally the selection of the new base period would be conducted in conjunction with updating the groundwater model and developing the historical model calibration period. To the

1 extent that a new base period is selected and applied now, it should be revisited one to two years
2 after initial completion of the updated groundwater model by the Mojave Water Agency and WM.

3 I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on March
4 4, 2026, in Daly City, California.

Peter is a registered geologist and hydrogeologist in California and has over thirty years of professional experience in groundwater consulting with a focus on groundwater resource development, management, and protection. Representative assignments include groundwater basin hydrogeologic characterization, water balances, groundwater modeling, and safe yield analyses; monitoring well, test well, and production well design, construction, aquifer testing, and groundwater quality sampling; groundwater impact studies related to treated wastewater disposal; evaluation of percolation pond capacity; groundwater quality studies; seawater intrusion analysis; groundwater impact studies to support CEQA analyses; expert witness testimony; assessment of groundwater flow and well yields in fractured bedrock; and aquifer storage and recovery feasibility studies.

Peter has extensive experience working in several different California groundwater basins in terms of basin-scale hydrogeologic characterization, water balances, groundwater modeling, safe/sustainable yield analysis, and basin management (e.g., Santa Maria Valley, Paso Robles Subbasin, East Bay Plain Subbasin, Chowchilla Subbasin, Madera Subbasin, Kaweah Subbasin, Tehachapi Valley Groundwater Basin, Cummings Valley Groundwater Basin, Salinas Valley, East Contra Costa Subbasin, and several others). Peter also has extensive experience working on adjudicated groundwater basins (e.g., Antelope Valley, Santa Maria Valley), preparation and implementation of groundwater sustainability plans (e.g., Chowchilla Subbasin, Madera Subbasin, East Bay Plain Subbasin), and serving on technical review committees (e.g., Hydrogeologic Working Group for Monterey Peninsula Water Supply Project, Groundwater Technical Advisory Committee for Salinas Valley 180/400-Foot Aquifer Subbasin).

EXPERIENCE

Salinas Valley 180/400-Foot Aquifer Subbasin, Monterey County, CA (ongoing): Currently serving as a member of the Groundwater Technical Advisory Committee or GTAC for implementation of the Groundwater Sustainability Plan (GSP) in the 180/400-Foot Aquifer Subbasin in Salinas Valley. Over the past three years, the group has been reviewing potential projects and management actions outlined in the GSP to address seawater intrusion and achieve sustainability, reviewing and commenting on an ongoing Deep Aquifer study, and reviewing and commenting on the development of a variable density seawater intrusion model that will be used to further evaluate the potential projects and management actions.

Monterey Peninsula Water Supply Project (MPWSP), Monterey County, CA (ongoing): Currently serving as an expert witness for California American Water in California, a legal case that was referred to the State Water Resources Control Board Administrative Hearings Office (SWRCB AHO) for hearings that have been conducted during 2022 and 2023, which will result in an expert report to be submitted to the Court by the SWRCB in 2024. The project involves a proposed desalination plant in Monterey County that would utilize production slant wells located on the beach for extraction of desalination plant feedwater. The case centers around the potential impacts (or lack thereof) of MPWSP beach slant wells on the Salinas Valley Groundwater Basin. Work completed so far has included preparation of several rounds of written direct and rebuttal testimony and providing verbal testimony on key technical issues during three phases of SWRCB AHO hearings.

Pete serves as a member of the Hydrogeologic Working Group (HWG), which was developed in 2013 to provide technical evaluations of groundwater-related issues for the potential development of the MPWSP. The HWG designed and implemented a field data collection program involving the drilling/installation of a full-scale saline groundwater production intake well (test slant well) on the beach, drilling/installation of nested monitoring wells (three wells at each location) at eight different sites, long-term regional aquifer testing conducted over a nearly three-year period that involved collection of water level and water quality data at 24 nested monitoring wells and the test slant well, hydrogeologic analyses, and development/calibration of a groundwater model. Several letters, technical memos (TMs), and reports have been prepared to summarize HWG findings. The HWG has also reviewed and provided comments on several studies in the area conducted by others.

Groundwater Storage and Recovery Project, San Francisco Public Utilities Commission, CA (ongoing): Since 2004, LSCE has provided a wide range of hydrogeological and related civil engineering services to the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission (SFPUC). LSCE provided construction and testing oversight for seven new wells constructed as part of the SFPUC's Groundwater Storage and Recovery (GSR) project. The wells were located at seven different sites in and around the San Bruno, Millbrae, and Daly City areas of San Mateo County. Each well site was unique regarding the working area, proximity to residences, access to sites, ground conditions, and fluid disposal. The required installation of new and upgraded distribution system components, pipelines, pump stations, and other facilities as part of the larger GSR project further complicated the logistics of well installation. LSCE continues to assist the SFPUC with ongoing well operations and maintenance work.

Chowchilla Subbasin and Madera Subbasin, Madera County, CA (ongoing): Served as Project Hydrogeologist for work conducted from 2018 through 2023, including preparing GSPs for each critically overdrafted Subbasin to meet DWR SGMA requirements. These GSPs involved preparing the hydrogeologic conceptual model for each groundwater basin, construction/calibration of a groundwater model, evaluation/development of sustainable management criteria, and extensive GSA and stakeholder outreach meetings during GSP development. The current work includes updates on the ongoing preparation of GSP Annual Reports for each Subbasin and responding to Department of Water Resources (DWR) comments to prepare GSP updates and revisions. Several additional projects have been conducted for both subbasins since 2019, including nested monitoring well installation, representative monitoring site (RMS) water level and water quality data collection, domestic well inventories to provide input to Domestic Well Mitigation Programs, and preparation of grant applications (e.g., recharge projects).

East Bay Plain Subbasin, East Bay Municipal Utility District and City of Hayward GSAs, Alameda County, CA (ongoing): Serving as Project Manager for work conducted from 2019 through 2023 that has included the preparation of a GSP for the Subbasin to meet DWR SGMA requirements (which was subsequently approved in 2023). The GSP included a data compilation and data gaps analysis, preparation of the hydrogeologic conceptual model for the groundwater basin, construction/calibration of a groundwater model, evaluation/development of sustainable management criteria, and extensive GSA and stakeholder outreach meetings during GSP development. The current work includes the preparation of GSP Annual Reports and working with DWR to prepare GSP updates and revisions. A separate project currently being conducted under a DWR Prop 68 grant includes evaluating interconnected surface water using isotopes, nested monitoring well installation, regional aquifer testing, and using groundwater isotopes to evaluate subbasin boundary conditions.

Santa Maria River Valley Groundwater Basin, Twitchell Management Authority, northern Santa Barbara and southern San Luis Obispo Counties, CA (ongoing):

Currently serving as Basin Engineer for the Santa Maria Valley Management Area (SMVMA) of the Santa Maria Valley Groundwater Basin. The Santa Maria River Valley Groundwater Basin underwent a groundwater basin adjudication process in the early 2000s and is currently managed as three separate areas. LSCE has served as the Basin Engineer for the largest management area, Santa Maria Valley Management Area (SMVMA), since 2008. A detailed and comprehensive annual report is prepared every year for submittal to the Court that summarizes SMVMA climatic conditions, surface water conditions (discharge and water quality), reservoir operations (storage and releases), groundwater conditions (water levels and quality), water requirements, and water supplies, and water disposition. In accordance with the Court Stipulation, an evaluation is made each year of whether or not the SMVMA is experiencing a severe water shortage per the four criteria established by the Court. A public presentation is made each year with annual report findings, and the final report is submitted to the Court.

Bayside ASR Project Aquifer Testing, East Bay Municipal Utility District, Alameda County, CA (2005 -2011):

Served as Project Manager for extensive aquifer testing conducted using an Aquifer Storage and Recovery (ASR) well in San Lorenzo, CA. Initial testing in 2005 included short-term extraction (4 hours at 1,200 gpm) and injection testing (4 hours at 650 gpm) of the ASR well using a local network of monitoring wells. The pump was pulled and inspected, video logging was conducted, and the pump was reinstalled in conjunction with the short-term aquifer testing effort. A large-scale and long-term aquifer test was conducted in 2010 by pumping the ASR well at 1,400 gpm for two months continuously, followed by collecting two months of recovery data. A local and regional monitoring network, including observation wells ranging from 40 feet to 5 miles from the ASR well in the cities of San Lorenzo, San Leandro, and Hayward, was utilized to collect water levels during the pumping and recovery phases of the long-term regional aquifer test covering large portions of the East Bay Plain and Niles Cone Groundwater Basins. A comprehensive report was prepared that included an evaluation of data from 25 observation wells utilized in the regional long-term test, along with an evaluation of regional aquifer testing conducted by others in the groundwater basin.

Antelope Valley Groundwater Basin Adjudication, Water Supply Purveyors (2010-2011): Served as an expert witness on behalf of Los Angeles County water purveyors regarding the determination of basin-safe yield and provided deposition and trial testimony on issues related to mountain front recharge, bedrock permeability, and groundwater flow through bedrock as a source of recharge to basin alluvium and its contribution to overall basin safe yield. Work completed included technical analyses, preparing an expert report, a deposition, and trial testimony. This phase of the trial was decided in the client's favor by a judge.
